

Precarious Pose

This Yellow-crowned Night-Heron, appearing a bit nervous before testing the waters, was photographed on 13 June 1995 at Jackson Park Wooded Isle in Chicago, Cook Co. by Thomas Jackman.

The bird remained until 2 July 1995 and attempted to nest on one of the islands in the East Lagoon with a small colony of Black-crowned Night-Herons.

The Yellow-crowned Night-Herons failed to produce young.

