* DOCUMENTATIONS are requested for all records of species flagged by an asterisk (*) and for all species not listed here. Please include photographic evidence when available. All such records (except as noted below) will be reviewed by the Illinois Ornithological Records Committee. In addition, documentations are encouraged (and may be required for admission to the Illinois permanent record) for species observed well outside their normal dates of occurrence, for extraordinary high counts, and/or for localized species encountered beyond their normal range within Illinois.

The following species occur regularly within the limited ranges specified and do not require documentation within their normal season and numbers at these sites: Harlequin Duck along Lake Michigan, Black Vulture in southern Illinois, Purple Sandpiper along Lake Michigan, Barn Owl at established breeding locations, and Bewick's Wren at or near Siloam Springs State Park. In addition, breeding-plumaged male Cinnamon Teal, breeding-plumaged Glossy Ibis, breeding-plumaged White-faced Ibis, and adult-plumaged California Gull do not require documentation.

DOCUMENTATIONS and other supporting data should be submitted to the Secretary of the Illinois Ornithological Records Committee via email to

This 6th edition of the IOS field checklist includes 355 species and one unestablished introduction [African Collared-Dove]. It was modified from earlier editions of the field checklist by Matthew Cvetas. This field checklist is based on "The Birds of Illinois" list published online at www.illinoisbirds.org/the-birds-of-illinois/ by the Illinois Ornithological Society and the Illinois Ornithological Records Committee. The field checklist includes all regular and casual species in Illinois. Accidentals are omitted. Regular species have been recorded in at least eight of the past ten years. Casual species have had records accepted in three to seven of the past ten years. Accidental species have had records accepted in no more than two of the past ten years. For English family names, we have adopted the same nomenclature as used in the American Ornithologists' Union checklist.
